

Swiss International City Ski Championships

Lloyd's of London was the big winner at last month's Swiss International City Ski Championships in Courmayeur, supported by Financial News and Brummell.

Lloyd's won both the dual parallel slalom relay and the blue ribbon City Ski Championships fastest team competition as pre-race favourites Accenture and RBS crumbled under the stress of competition.

The ladies' and mixed team events were won by Accenture and ABC News, respectively. George Lovell from the Stock Exchange Ski Club was the individual male champion and Charlotte Strickland from JP Morgan carried off the ladies' title in her first appearance in the competition. Einar Johansen from Merrill Lynch again proved himself to be the fastest skier in the City by winning the super FIS category with Laura Westmacott winning the ladies super FIS.

The championships were attended by ski legends Konrad Bartelski and Graham Bell and sponsored by SWISS International Airlines, Accenture, Cheviot, Snow+Rock, Crew Clothing, Champagne GH Mumm & Links of London.
